TRAVIS ROMESHA

PMP INSTRUCTOR & EXECUTIVE IT PORTFOLIO MANAGER

PORTFOLIO | PROGRAM | PROJECT MANAGEMENT | AGILE | WATERFALL

Executive IT Portfolio Manager and Project Management Professional (PMP) with more than 30 years of experience leading enterprise technology, cybersecurity, communications, and digital transformation initiatives across the Department of Defense (DoD), federal government, and private industry. As a dedicated instructor with Security University, I prepare professionals to master both the principles and best practices of project management and to successfully pass the PMP® certification exam.

My teaching combines real-world leadership of portfolios, programs, and projects with practical frameworks and proven techniques that students can apply immediately to drive results in today's complex environments.

I combine decades of real-world leadership with proven project, program, and portfolio management frameworks to help professionals not only pass their certification exams, but more importantly, apply those principles to successfully lead teams, manage risk, and deliver results in any environment.

ABOUT TRAVIS

Throughout my career, I have held senior leadership positions with civilian equivalent responsibilities as an Executive IT Portfolio Manager. In these roles, I was accountable for overseeing enterprise technology portfolios consisting of projects, programs, operations, governance, strategic planning, and resource prioritization supporting hundreds of personnel and global mission operations.

Since 2023, I have supported Agility Consulting International as an Agile Project Management Consultant and served as a Requirements Portfolio Manager on a federal government contract. I am the Founder and President of Black Sheep Management & Consulting LLC, delivering IT and management consulting, project and portfolio management, cybersecurity, and business strategy services to government and commercial clients.

I hold a Top Secret/SCI security clearance with CI Polygraph and integrate structured project management with modern Agile and Lean practices to drive measurable outcomes.
